SEXUAL ASSAULT NURSE EXAMINER PEDIATRIC & ADULT

Pediatric: September 30, October 1 & 2, 2009
Adult: November 16-20, 2009

Pediatric SANE Training
3-Day Preparation Program for the SANE-P Certification
 Wednesday, Thursday & Friday September 30, October 1 & 2, 2009

Description: A team approach is necessary for a victim centered response to pediatric sexual assault. Therefore, this course will describe the role and function of each member of a pediatric sexual assault response team including the role of child sexual abuse specialists. Emphasis will be placed upon the role of the forensic examiner in the immediate aftermath of the crime. Protocols and procedures for forensic examiners will be described and discussed. This course is a three day comprehensive course designed for health care professionals. At the completion of this course, each participant will be able to assess, evaluate and examine pediatric victims of sexual assault in the immediate aftermath of the crime. Course content will include evidence collection, documentation, referrals, and testimony. A skills station for photography and colposcopy will be included in the course. In keeping with IAFN standards, this course prepares participants for the SANE-P examination.

Target Audience: The course is open to nurses, nurse practitioners, nurse midwives, physicians and physician assistants. It is beneficial, but not mandatory, that the participant complete an adult sexual assault forensic examiner training prior to this course.

Cities and Women's Health: Global Perspectives

April 7-10, 2010

The aim of the Penn-ICOWHI 18th Congress, Cities and Women's Health: Global Perspectives, is to deconstruct urban planning in terms of its potential to better support women's health. When structuring an urban environment conducive to promoting and preserving women's health, we must give up the assumption that the needs of women are the same as for men in order to understand the health needs of women in cities. In fact, there are remarkable opportunities to have profound impact on meeting the unique needs of urban women by bringing together professionals from all facets of health care, health policy and urban design, among others, to open interdisciplinary discussions about their work.
