Historical Sketch. The "History of Nursing in Philadelphia" project was initiated in 1973. The organization sought to promote nursing's heritage as part of the 1976 bicentennial celebration, to designate the Mutter Museum of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia as a nursing memorabilia repository, to establish an endowment fund for the preservation of nursing documents and artifacts, and to focus community attention on nursing's contribution to the health and welfare of society. Lillian S. Brunner, a noted author and nursing leader, played an important role in working out the guidelines with the leaders of the College of Physicians of Philadelphia.

Summary. This collection, despite its small size, shows the beginning of nurses taking responsibility for their profession's records. It contains minutes of preparatory committee meetings, correspondence of Lillian Brunner, publicity material, etc.
